Everyone has a story. Put another way, everyone's life is a story. But most people don't know how to read their life in a way that reveals their story. They miss the deeper meaning in their life, and they have little sense of how God has written their story to reveal Himself and His own story.”

---

Dan Allender

The first four words in the Bible are, “In the beginning God.” And just as with the Bible, so it is true in your life as well. Your spiritual journey began not with your interest in or pursuit of God, but with His unrelenting pursuit of you. “In the beginning” of your story . . . God! One of the most profound realizations that comes along with becoming a Christian is that, in your quest or expedition for God, you mistakenly thought you were the hunter. But nothing could be further from the truth. God is the hunter, the searcher, the pursuing lover. What you thought were your first attempts to reach for God, were only your first moments of awareness of His pursuit of you. And if He is the pursuing Lover, you are the pursued beloved!

UNDERSTANDING YOUR STORY BACKWARDS AND FORWARDS

When we share stories of the times in our lives when our faith or trust in God has grown, common experiences emerge between us all. Author Reggie Joiner calls these common experiences “faith catalysts” because they seem to be the key things that God uses to grow your faith in Him.

Note: for further exploration into these catalysts, listen to the 6-part sermon series by Andy Stanley: fivethingsgoduses.com

STOP! Don't do this alone. Well, you can, but there's a better way. One thing you will need for your ongoing spiritual growth is relationships with others. In fact, you'll discover that developing relationships with other Jesus followers is actually a spiritual practice that will be vital for the rest of your life. Do you have this sort of relationship with someone already? If so, ask them to sit down with you to listen and help you think through the five faith catalysts listed on page 8. If you don't know someone yet who could help you do this, let us help. One of our Timberline team members would love to connect with you, maybe over a cup of coffee, and hear your story as you journey through these five faith catalysts.

THE STARTING POINT

THE FIVE FAITH CATALYSTS

TIMBERLINE CHURCH MISSION STATEMENT

To lead people into a transforming relationship with Jesus and others.

HOW?

Have you ever drawn a life-map? Essentially, it's drawing a timeline of your life to this point, and then marking specific points along that line representing moments which have shaped your story. As you create your life map, see if you can place each event under one of the Five Faith Catalysts. Utilize pages 24-25 to help you organize your thoughts. While each of us has a unique faith story, one thing they all have in common are these Five Faith Catalysts.

NOTE: With which of the Five Faith Catalysts do you want to start? There's no necessary order. Think of it like a "choose your own adventure"!

As you read through these Five Faith Catalysts, write down some ways in the past or present that you've experienced personal, emotional, and spiritual growth under each of the five. (p.24)

PRACTICAL TEACHING

REVEALS WHERE WE ARE AND WHERE WE NEED TO GO

When people talk about their faith journeys, even if they grew up in church, they often speak of a time when a mental light bulb went off and they suddenly got it. It might be that you were listening to a Bible teacher or taking part in a small group Bible study, but this time it was different. This time you actually knew what to do with what you'd heard. You knew how to apply the truths of the Bible to your daily life. Maybe it was the first time you really understood the radical nature of God's grace or forgiveness.

Practical teaching reveals where you are and where you need to go. You can discover this listening to a sermon, in a group study experience, reading books, blogs, or articles. Are you regularly participating in a healthy, well-balanced church which practically teaches the Bible?

I believe in Christianity as I believe that the Sun has risen, not only because I see it but because by it I see everything else.

PRIVATE DISCIPLINES

TUNE OUR HEARTS TO GOD'S HEART.

When people tell about their faith journeys they also often speak of private experiences like prayer, Bible reading/memorization/meditation, secret giving, fasting, silence, solitude, etc. Private disciplines (also known as “spiritual practices”) introduce a sense of intimacy with God and provide accountability to our faith walks. They are ways in which we connect with God privately. There is a direct correlation between your private life and your personal faith, but you must always keep in mind that the point of engaging in spiritual disciplines is not to become an expert in spiritual disciplines. Disciplines are just a means to the real end—growing in love for God and others. Disciplines are like railings in a stairway, important only because they keep you from falling as you move along, being transformed in heart and character into the image of Jesus (2 Cor 3:18).

Here's the problem with how we often talk about private disciplines. Many people listen to a sermon or read book by someone they think of as an expert, and assume that they are supposed to engage in private disciplines exactly how “the expert” does. If it doesn't work for them—because they are hardwired differently—they give up, feeling guilty and inadequate.

So, we want to suggest that it's absolutely necessary to understand how God has uniquely hardwired you as you begin to explore engaging in private disciplines (temperament, learning style, spiritual pathway).

What's your temperament? (See page 15)

- Introverted or extroverted?
- Prefer data or intuition?
- Thinker or a feeler?
- Like things orderly or open-ended?

What are your top learning styles?

- Visual – learn best by seeing
- Auditory – learn best by hearing
- Tactile – learn best by doing
- Oral – learn best by saying
- Social – learn best in groups
- Logical – learn best in linear process
- Imaginative – learn best through art, story, and image

What are your top spiritual pathways?

(How you experience God most profoundly)

- Naturalist – finds God in nature
- Ascetic – is drawn to disciplines
- Traditionalist – loves historical liturgies
- Activist – comes alive spiritually in a great cause
- Caregiver – meets God in serving
- Sensate – senses God through five senses
- Enthusiast – loves to grow through people
- Contemplative – is drawn to solitary reflection and prayer
- Intellectual – loves God by learning

Two categories of private disciplines:

- Detachment: solitude, silence, fasting, frugality, chastity, secrecy, sacrifice
- Engagement: study, worship, celebration, service, prayer, fellowship, confession, submission

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

- What has been your experience with private disciplines or spiritual practices?
- Which are most appealing to you, and why?
- Based on your temperament, learning style, and spiritual pathway, how might you engage in a private discipline in ways that fit and complement your hardwiring?
- What questions do you have about spiritual disciplines?
- Which discipline do you believe God might be leading you to explore?

PERSONAL MINISTRY

ENABLES US TO EXPERIENCE GOD'S POWER

There are few things that stretch and grow our trust in God like stepping into a ministry/service environment where we feel inadequate for the task. It's then that God must show up in order for things to succeed, and when He does our trust in Him grows. Examples of personal ministry are numerous: facilitating a small group, working in a specific church ministry (childcare, adult education, communion preparation, ushers, greeters, prayer teams, café volunteer, etc.), or ministry outside the physical church building (community outreach through Serve 6.8, homebound visitation, serving a neighbor, volunteering at a local school, etc.). God is inviting you to step out of your comfort zone and watch what He will do both in you and through you.

Tasks don't have to be high-impact to be worthy of high effort. Most things we do in any given day are relatively low impact. The cumulative impact of thousands of low-impact tasks is huge. These tasks can be transposed into worship.

John Piper

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

- What has been your experience with volunteering or serving others in the past?
- What do you think God might be nudging you to do (maybe a thought that just won't go away)?
- What are your hesitations or excuses for not getting involved serving somewhere?
- If you've been impacted by the ministries of Timberline, it's not because we have the most talented, capable people serving here. It's because a lot of individuals (with all their inadequacies) stepped out and decided to give what little time, talent, or treasure they had in service for God, and God used it to impact your life. What might God want to use in your life to impact others?
- We don't have to go very far to serve others. What are some ways you can use your experience and abilities to make little deposits of love in your home? At work? In your neighborhood?

WANT TO GO FURTHER?

- There are many opportunities to serve at Timberline. Through "Serving Central" a Ministry Guide is available to meet one-on-one with you to help you discover your personal ministry. Through the Timberline website you will find the SHAPE Assessment, an online tool for discovering your God-given gifts, heart, abilities and passions (www.timberlinechurch.org/weserve). Your results will be emailed to you.
- Read or listen to the audio book, Love Does, by Bob Goff.

PROVIDENTIAL RELATIONSHIPS

ALLOW US TO HEAR FROM GOD THROUGH OTHERS

While the first three of the five catalysts are well within our control to jump into, these next two are a bit different. I can't create a "providential relationship," because, by definition, it's provided by God. These are the relationships we look back on and come to believe that God put into our lives. People's faith stories always involve that couple, that guy, a neighbor, an old roommate, that friend, a coworker, etc. Through these people intersecting with our lives, we hear from God or we see God reflected in them. While we can't create a providential relationship, we can put ourselves in environments where we're likely to meet someone through whom we might encounter God.

I believe many Christians today head in a dangerous direction when they neglect these essential relationships and decide they can do without a community that enfolds and nurtures the life of God within them.

—————
Mindy Caliguire

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

- It might have been a long-term friendship, or a brief encounter, but can you think of a person, couple, or maybe even a group that God brought along at just the right time?
- Does anything hold you back from getting involved with others?
- What relational weaknesses or hang-ups of yours have caused issues for you or others in the past?

WANT TO GO FURTHER?

- If you haven't already, make the first step to get involved in a Timberline small group (www.timberlinechurch.org/smallgroups).
- Read Spiritual Friendship by Mindy Caliguire. Purchase your copy online or in the Timberline bookstore.

PIVOTAL CIRCUMSTANCES

FORCE US TO LOOK TO GOD

Finally, when people describe their faith journeys, they always include events that could be described as “defining moments.” Some are good (discovering a new opportunity, being awarded a scholarship, getting married, having a baby, receiving a promotion or a job transfer). But just as often, these defining moments involve pain and disappointment (the death of a friend or family member, divorce, prolonged illness, a job transfer, betrayal by a friend). One challenge with this catalyst is that we don’t chose or schedule pivotal circumstance or see them coming, but they have the power to either strengthen or erode our confidence in God.

What makes the difference as to which way a pivotal circumstance pushes you in relation to your faith? It’s not the event itself, because two people could go through the same difficult experience and have completely different responses—trusting God or walking away from God. It’s not the event itself, but how you interpret and respond to the event. If your worldview includes elements like knowing that everything belongs to God

Out of the greatest evil, the death of Jesus, came the greatest good. God transforms evil into good without diminishing the awfulness of the evil.

Peter Scazzero

and we are just managers, then nothing we have or lose will distract us or bring us to despair (1 Cor 10:26). If your worldview includes the understanding that God is sovereign and good, then you'll live with a confidence that in all situations, God really will work for your flourishing (Rom 8:28). And of course, your worldview is partially shaped by the first faith catalyst—practical teaching.

This brings up an important point. All of these Five Faith Catalysts are intertwined. When going through a difficult pivotal circumstance, not only do you need to be fortified by practical Bible teaching (#1), you also need to lean on relationships which may be providential (#4), and so on. The conclusions we draw about God in the midst of our pivotal circumstances drive us toward or away from deeper trust in God.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

- What have been pivotal circumstances in your life which have pushed you closer to God?
- Read Proverbs 30:7-9. What do you think might pose the greatest threat to your faith—soaring success or deep difficulty?
- Your emotional thoughts largely shape how you interpret the world? How would you describe your worldview?
- How do you think God is shaping you right now through your circumstances?
- Are you able to ask God to not just comfort you during your trials, but to mold and make you inwardly more like Jesus?
- Do you have any spiritual blocks and wounds? What has consistently blocked your journey into your spiritual longings? And how can you be free of those hindrances into your spiritual longing?

WANT TO GO FURTHER?

THE FIVE FAITH CATALYSTS

Now this is important! This list of Five Faith Catalysts is not a checklist or to-do list. Rather, it is a filter to look through as you walk into your future as an apprentice of Jesus. God has told us that His ultimate goal for who we become inwardly (our attitudes, desires, understanding, character, etc.) is to be transformed into the image of Jesus (2 Cor 3:18; Rom 8:29). And as we do life with God, we learn that He is actually more committed to us becoming the best, flourishing versions of ourselves than even we are. So, how do you suppose God will go about this process of transforming your life and trust in Him? Simple. Through these five catalysts.

Write down your next steps on page 26.

RESOURCES | GENOGRAM QUESTIONS

A Genogram is a powerful tool to become aware of patterns in your family of origin that hinder your emotional and spiritual growth. Once you are aware of them, you can change the unhealthy patterns. Need help? Watch a short video training on Vimeo.com, search “Genogram Your Family”. [IMPORTANT:] Fill out the genogram through the eyes of your childhood (as if between eight and twelve years old).

1. Describe each family member with two or three adjectives (parents, caretakers, grandparents, siblings, children).
2. Describe your parents’ (caretakers’) and grandparents’ marriages.
3. How was conflict handled in your extended family over two to three generations? Anger? Gender Roles?
4. What were some generational themes (e.g., addictions, affairs, losses, abuse, divorce, depression, mental illness, abortions, children born out of wedlock, etc.)?
5. How well did your family do in talking about feelings?
6. How was sexuality talked or not talked about? What were the implied messages?
7. Were there any family “secrets” (such as a pregnancy out of wedlock, incest, or major financial scandal)?

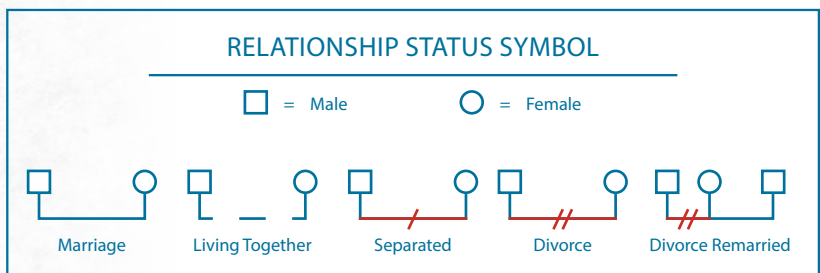

8. What was considered “success” in your family?
9. How was money handled? Spiritually? Holidays? Relationships with extended family?
10. How did your family’s ethnicity shape you?
11. Were there any heroes or heroines in the family? Scapegoats? “Losers”? Why?
12. What kinds of addictions, if any, existed in the family?
13. Were there traumatic losses in the past or present, such as sudden death, prolonged illnesses, stillbirths/miscarriages, bankruptcy, or divorce?

The above exercise, while painful, leads us to ask three essential questions if we are going to live and lead with integrity.

1. What one or two patterns might emerge of how your family has impacted who you are today?
2. In what area(s) might you be shaping your life and your ministry [calling] according to your past rather than Christ’s family?
3. What “hard work of discipleship” might you have before you?

RESOURCES | GENOGRAM YOUR FAMILY

Relationship	Relationship Dynamics	Symbol
Conflicted	A consistent pattern where issues do not get resolved between people.
Cut Offs	People in the family stop talking to one another or avoid contact.
Distant/Poor	Low or minimal emotional connection between family members.
Enmeshment	Pressure is created for family members to think, feel and act alike. There is low tolerance for people to be separate, to disagree, or be different.
Abuse	A severe crossing of personal boundaries—whether it be sexual, emotional, or physical, severely injuring the dignity and humanity of another.

The goal is not to get the symbols perfect, but to become aware of unhealthy, sinful patterns from our family of origin that are hindering our spiritual and emotional growth into maturity in Christ.

READ SCRIPTURE

The Bible is one unified story that leads us to Jesus, and we want to help you learn how to read it for yourself. We invite you to try the “Read Scripture” experience. This is a Bible reading plan that breaks up the story of the Bible in 16 “chapters,” arranging the books in a way to help you see how the overall story works, and how each individual book contributes to it. The really great part of this Bible reading plan is that as you start each new book of the Bible you’ll be able to watch a short video that lays out that book’s structure and flow of thought, and gives you tips about what kinds of things to look for as you read.

There are also theme videos, placed at strategic points in the reading plan to help you see how the part of Bible you're reading fits into that larger story. Finally, each day's reading session includes a Psalm (Israel's prayer book), because we believe that reading the Bible is not just an intellectual experience, but also a spiritual one. If you take just 15-20 minutes a day to follow this plan, you'll be able to read through the entire Bible in less than a year. Our hope is that the "Read Scripture" experience will help you read through the entire Bible with greater understanding than you've ever had before, so you can see for yourself the beauty and the wisdom of this ancient story that points us to Jesus. Watch book introduction videos at thebibleproject.com. Even get the videos sent to your inbox, or download the app.

APPENDIX

SPIRITUAL GROWTH CONTINUUM

We each want to uncover insights about what advances our spiritual growth and what gets in the way. Our definition of “spiritual growth” is based on Jesus’ teaching about the greatest commandment—to love God and to love others (Mt 22:36-40).

How would you describe your current pace of spiritual growth?

Stalled

Content

Slow But Steady

Moderate

Rapid

What’s your greatest desire from the church?

- Help me understand the Bible in depth.
- Help me develop a personal relationship with Jesus.
- Help me in my time of emotional need.
- Provide a clear pathway to guide growth.
- Challenge me to grow.
- Help me feel like I belong.

WHERE ARE YOU AT?

A fascinating study was done a few years ago on spiritual growth in the church. One thing that emerged was a spiritual growth continuum (Move: What 1,000 Churches Reveal About Spiritual Growth, Greg Hawkins and Cally Parkinson). The continuum showed four segments of church attenders:

1. Exploring Christ: The people in this segment have a basic belief in God, but they are unsure about Jesus and his role in their lives.
2. Growing in Christ: The people in this segment have a personal relationship with Jesus. They've made a commitment to trust him with their destinies, but they are just beginning to learn what it means and what it takes to develop a relationship with him.
3. Close to Christ: The people in this segment depend on Jesus every day. They see Jesus as someone who assists them in life. On a daily basis, they turn to him for help and guidance for the issues they face in life.
4. Christ-Centered: The people in this segment would identify their relationship with Jesus as the most important relationship in their lives. They realize that life is not about Jesus just helping them with their lives, but a willingness to sacrifice anything for Jesus' kingdom mission here and now.

SPIRITUAL GROWTH OCCURS IN THREE MOVEMENTS ACROSS THE SPIRITUAL CONTINUUM

1 EXPLORING CHRIST

"I believe in God, but I'm not sure about Jesus. My faith is not a significant part of my life."

2 GROWING IN CHRIST

"I believe in Jesus and I am working on what it means to get to know him."

3 CLOSE TO CHRIST

"I feel really close to Jesus and depend on him daily for guidance."

4 CHRIST-CENTERED

"My relationship with Jesus is the most important relationship in my life. It guides everything I do."

The most important thing is not just identifying where you are on the spiritual growth continuum, but to experience growth—to move forward! As you can see in the image below, there are three big movements that take place. People who were surveyed from across the four segments on the continuum reported that movement for them was propelled by leaning into specific (1) Core Beliefs & Attitudes, (2) Church Activities, (3) Personal Spiritual Practices, and (4) Spiritual Activities.

MOVEMENT 1

Movement 1 is all about Christian basics. Developing a firm foundation of spiritual beliefs and attitudes is critical during this trust-building phase. The impact of church activities on spiritual growth is most significant in this movement.

MOVEMENT 2

In Movement 2 people decide that their relationship with Jesus is personal to them. It hinges on developing a routine of personal spiritual practices that make space and time for a growing intimacy with Jesus.

MOVEMENT 3

In Movement 3 believers replace secular self-centeredness with Christlike self-sacrifice. They pour out their increasing love for Jesus through spiritual outreach activities, especially evangelism.

WHICH MOVEMENT DO YOU NEED TO LEAN INTO?

Note: The ones in bold for each movement were reported by those surveyed as the top five which caused the greatest impact of movement.
